Welcome to Aurangabad.
Aurangabad laid low through most of the tumultuous history of medieval India and only hit the spotlight when the last Mughal emperor, Aurangzeb, made the city his capital from 1653 to 1707. With the emperor's death came the city's rapid decline, but the brief period of glory saw the building of some fascinating monuments, including Bibi-q-a-Maqbara, a Taj Mahal replica, and these continue to draw a steady trickle of
